

Futex

With the migration of trading from “pits” to “screens” and the advances in technology over the past decade, trading the world’s major financial markets has now become possible from almost any location in the world.

At Futex we are dedicated to delivering this opportunity to traders who would prefer to do their business outside of London. With our state-of-the-art offices traders can now spare themselves the strains and costs of commuting into the city each day and trade from more peaceful surroundings without ever missing a beat.

We offer access to most of the world’s major exchanges via various ISVs and a real-time simulator for new traders. We also have access to numerous news services and dedicated analysts.

Futex has been backing and training traders since 1995 and has a fully integrated graduate program which begins at several times during each year. Experienced traders who wish to provide their own capital to trade are also welcome to rent space in our offices.
