PROJECT: SINGLE ORDER BOOK

Single Order Book: additional simulation test

Following the info-flash of 30 July 2008, NYSE Euronext is pleased to inform clients that a limited simulation of the move to Single Order Book is being made available for the Dexia stocks only on Euronext's External User Acceptance (EUA) platform. This specific simulation is independent of the ESES tests that are currently underway and is uniquely for the trading part (clearing and settlement are not included).

The simulation will commence on Monday, 8 September in the following way:

- Beginning the evening of Monday, 8 September and coming into effect on Tuesday, 9 September: reopening of the DEXIA Paris order book (ISIN code BE0003796134 and Paris trading code NSCFR0000DX3)
- Tuesday, 9 September during the day: no trading will be allowed on the DEXIA Paris order book
 - Only order entry will be authorised for DEXIA Paris (the order book will remain in pre-opening phase for the entire day)
 - Order entry and trading will be authorised on the DEXIA Brussels order book (ISIN code = trading code = BE0003796134)
- Beginning the evening of Tuesday, 9 September and coming into effect on Wednesday, 10 September: Purge of the DEXIA Paris and DEXIA Brussels order books and the prevention of access to the DEXIA Paris order book.
- Wednesday, 10 September: only the DEXIA Brussels order book will be authorised for order entry and trading.

The objective of this supplementary simulation is to allow clients to test their transfer processes and notably the re-entry of orders. The subsequent two stages which concern depository changes and the closing of the order books will not be performed again.

All available NYSE Euronext information and any updates concerning Single Order Book are available on the Euronext website in the following location:
